

After watching the documentary “Hamilton: Building America”, Mark each statement as TRUE or FALSE.

- _____ Hamilton grew up with 2 parents and several siblings.
- _____ Hamilton’s ability to write well helped convinced those in his community to send him to America.
- _____ One of the reasons Hamilton and George Washington became close was because Washington had no children and Hamilton was lacking a father figure.
- _____ Hamilton’s wife was from a poor family.
- _____ Hamilton believed state’s rights were more important than a strong national government.
- _____ The Federalist papers, many of which were written by Hamilton, were not influential in shaping policies.
- _____ Hamilton was named the first Secretary of the Treasury.
- _____ Hamilton thought the national debt could be a blessing in many ways.
- _____ Hamilton felt the national government should not pay individual states’ debts.
- _____ Some people thought that by the year 1792, Alexander Hamilton was the second most powerful person in the nation.
- _____ Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton agreed on state versus federal (national) rights.
- _____ Hamilton’s enemies said Hamilton thought America should have a king to rule it.
- _____ George Washington did not remain allies with Alexander Hamilton after the Reynolds scandal.
- _____ Hamilton founded the New York Times newspaper.
- _____ Aaron Burr was convicted of murder after Hamilton’s death.

ANSWER KEY

After watching the documentary “Hamilton: Building America”, Mark each statement as TRUE or FALSE.

- (False) Hamilton grew up with 2 parents and several siblings.
- (True) Hamilton’s ability to write well helped convince those in his community to send him to America.
- (True) One of the reasons Hamilton and George Washington became close was because Washington had no children and Hamilton was lacking a father figure.
- (False) Hamilton’s wife was from a poor family.
- (False) Hamilton believed state’s rights were more important than a strong national government.
- (False) The Federalist papers, many of which were written by Hamilton, were not influential in shaping policies.
- (True) Hamilton was named the first Secretary of the Treasury.
- (True) Hamilton thought the national debt could be a blessing in many ways.
- (False) Hamilton felt the national government should not pay individual states’ debts.
- (True) Some people thought that by the year 1792, Alexander Hamilton was the second most powerful person in the nation.
- (False) Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton agreed on state versus federal (national) rights.
- (True) Hamilton’s enemies said Hamilton thought America should have a king to rule it.
- (False) George Washington did not remain allies with Alexander Hamilton after the Reynolds scandal.
- (True) Hamilton founded the New York Times newspaper.
- (False) Aaron Burr was convicted of murder after Hamilton’s death.